

Fixups for jj-WebDesign Template --- https://skagit.instructure.com/files/1329832/download?download_frd=1

1. Firetrail -- shop out the lines at left in forest (or maybe not; might be trees, actually)
2. Make Search work; maybe will after upload
3. Media response doesn't work correctly in articles yet, but might after change body; already wider for desktop
4. Change mailto address from jrj@fidalgo.net to new webdesign.com mail and add to incoming mail devices
5. Make a sitemap
6. Change font colors to Nav match
7. Put NAP in lower right of footer
8. Make Icons better visibility
9. Screen capture of log as of 15aug18

Conversations with Adobe Forum --

Hi --

I'm completing a new website both to launch my business (after completing Adobe Certificate, not yet) and as an assignment for a course. I've run into problems with the template and have flailed around trying to fix it in CSS and just made it worse. (Am suspicious that an incipient Windows Update, robbing resources in the background, was causing dropped stitches in the knitting.) The zip file will be uploaded, and it includes a WordPad file showing some of what I still need to tweak and might forget -- the big things need no reminder.

Anyway, the Accordion is set up correctly so far as I can see, but it doesn't work.

The center article should fill the space between the accordion and the media icons, but I can't get it to format so it looks the same as Sidebar1 only wider.

I've found "csses" and plan to delete the unused CSS selectors, but don't want to do that until later, so it's a mess. And all the code needs to be tidied up eventually as it's shameful now, but am working to a deadline and must do essentials first.

Well... I don't see any way to attach the zip. Guess I'll upload the files. Wonder if the zip can be downloaded from the url? Let's find out.

1. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Nancy OShea

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

Nancy OShea Aug 15, 2018 1:35 PM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

Sorry, I don't download files from untrusted sources. It's nothing personal.

The best way to get help here is to upload your page & assets to a TEST folder on your remote server. We can examine the page with our browser developer tools to see what's cookin'.

1 person found this helpful

2. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

BenPleysier

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

BenPleysier Aug 15, 2018 5:55 PM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

If this is your site, jj-INK - Home, please tell us where the accordion has been placed and what it is supposed to do.

3. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 15, 2018 8:31 PM (in response to BenPleysier)

No, that's not the site I'm doing now; the jj-ink is from older college class projects but the uploading got scrambled for jj-INK - Home and I'll clean all this up on the host site when I have more time. You've been doing some detective work to find that. I don't actually have a home page for this new project yet, as I'm still working on the template, which can be downloaded from -- Index of /15aug18-template-jrj

Further, a friend from home used his test program and found a bug in that DW template from the download; I will meet with him tomorrow to discuss this, as we're both attending the WorldCon in San Jose. It's a relief to know that I wasn't doing anything wrong, but there was a bug. Don't yet know how to deal with it -- probably start with a backup file from before the corruption and redo that last day. Won't give me back all the time I wasted flailing around, though.

Thanks for taking an interest.

4. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 15, 2018 8:38 PM (in response to Nancy OShea)

I sent an email reply asking how to do an upload to Test, but it must not have worked, so I'm asking now while on the Forum. To do that, do I just create a directory for these files named "Test" or is there more to it?

Further, a friend from home used his test program after I asked our fan group for help, and he found a bug in that DW template from the download from Index of /15aug18-template-jrj ; I will meet with him tomorrow to discuss this, as we're both attending the WorldCon in San Jose.

It's a relief to know that I wasn't doing anything wrong, but that there actually was a bug, as I suspected. Don't yet know how to deal with it -- probably start with a backup file from before the corruption and redo that last day. Won't give me back all the time I wasted flailing around, though.

So is it worth your time to take a look as well, once I find out how to do this Test upload thing?

Thank you for your help.

5. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Nancy OShea

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

Nancy OShea Aug 16, 2018 11:50 AM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

TESTING & DEBUGGING

Open your Files Panel (F8).

Right click on your local site folder and select New Folder.

Name it TEST.

Copy your problem page and assets to the newly created TEST folder.

Upload TEST folder to your remote server.

When your questions are answered, you may delete the TEST folder from your remote server.

6. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 16, 2018 2:22 PM (in response to Nancy OShea)

Ok I'll do that but need directions about test folders. Just name the folder test is all?

Get Outlook for iOS

Helpful Like Show 0 Likes(0) Reply Actions

7. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 17, 2018 10:19 AM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

OK, many thanks. Files are in Index of /TEST

8. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Nancy OShea

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

Nancy OShea Aug 17, 2018 10:32 AM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

That's not quite what I was hoping for. We just need to see a working page online. I don't want to download and unzip anything.

9. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 17, 2018 11:04 AM (in response to Nancy OShea)

OK, I uploaded the css and js files, except I haven't found the font-awesome, but don't believe you'll need that. There's an image in the fixup file of the DreamWeaver open to the present DWT and you can see the subsidiary files. So you should have a working page when you put them all together with the css files in that director and js files in theirs. Image won't show; do you want me to upload that too? Forgot.

10. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 17, 2018 11:13 AM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

OK, realized I could put them into subdirectories and have done so.

Index of /TEST

- Parent Directory
- Capture of before bug backup file.PNG
- Fixups for jj-WebDesign Template.rtf
- Images/
- css/
- jj-WebDesign.dwt
- jj-WebDesignTemplate-14aug18.zip
- js/

Apache Server at www.jj-webdesign.com Port 80

11. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Nancy OShea

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

Nancy OShea Aug 17, 2018 11:24 AM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

Don't you have a working .html page?

To give you an example of what I mean, this is a demo I created yesterday. It's a working web page -- nothing to download, no assembly required.

Alt-Web Demo :: Responsive Masonry Gallery

12. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 17, 2018 7:19 PM (in response to Nancy OShea)

OK, I finally got it to come up after I created a page from the faulty template.

jj-WebDesign — Let's make it right.

My friend emailed that he found a bug using the first set of files I sent, from the zip, and now we're both at the same convention in San Jose, WorldCon76, but he never followed up to tell me what to do about fixing anything, or what I should do, and I haven't seen him. The deadline for this submission is tomorrow.

Thank you for any help you can offer.

Judy

13. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Nancy OShea

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

Nancy OShea Aug 18, 2018 10:28 AM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

Please upload the JS folder containing Bootstrap and JQuery.js. Those essential files are 404 not found on server.

14. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Judy R Johnson

Level 1

Judy R Johnson Aug 18, 2018 12:38 PM (in response to Nancy OShea)

If you look at the earlier replies, it's all there in the Notes directory. And when I open <http://www.jj-webdesign.com/TEST/home.html> from my tablet, it is fine and doesn't need anything further.

Guess I should just despair.

[Personal info removed by moderator.]

15. Re: Dreamweaver troubleshoot CSS and Accordion

Nancy OShea

Adobe Community Professional & MVP

Nancy OShea Aug 18, 2018 12:37 PM (in response to Judy R Johnson)

Then your web page contains bad paths to those 2 essential scripts. When I view your source code in my browser and click on the jQuery script, this is what I see. Ditto for the Bootstrap script.

```
1 <!DOCTYPE HTML PUBLIC "-//IETF//DTD HTML
2 2.0//EN">
3 <html><head>
4 <title>404 Not Found</title>
5 </head><body>
6 <h1>Not Found</h1>
7 The requested URL /TEST/js/jquery-
8 1.11.3.min.js was not found on this
9 server.
10 Additionally, a 404 Not Found
11 error was encountered while trying to use an
12 ErrorDocument to handle the request.
13 <hr>
14 <address>Apache Server at www.jj-
15 webdesign.com Port 80</address>
16 </body></html>
```

18aug18 -- tried to troubleshoot but still now luck. Submitting it all as is.